

I am very disapointed to hear that the FCC is considering giving translator preferences to LPFM stations over traditional FM service, and in particular that this would mean stations such as K-LOVE would probably not be able to continue operating. There are radio programs of every kind in my area (San Diego), but there are only a few that provide the kind of family oriented, wholesome content that K-LOVE serves the community. If you allow LPFM broadcasts to have preference (against all precedent), you will be depriving this and many other communities of stations which provide educational, informational, spiritual, and musical enrichment. this goes against the principles on which this nation was founded. It is in the public interest to maintain a cross-spectrum of programming, including that which is directed to spiritual interests. In firm reliance that more thought will go into this proposal before any action takes place, you have my thanks. The people have the right to have their interests represented in a manner that truly allows free speech as well as free enterprise. We need this station and others like it; they are a big part of our lives. Thank you.
